

Koreans in the Hood: Conflict with African Americans

Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news media seized upon the violent riots and depicted Korean shop owners as gun-wielding exploiters of the African American poor. Absent from the barrage of media coverage was the Korean American point of view and experience of the inner city economy and racial relations. This new volume of essays written largely by Korean American scholars adds substantially to our understanding of interracial, multiethnic conflict by examining relations between the Korean American and African American communities in three major American cities: Los Angeles, Chicago, and New York. Edited by sociologist Kwang Chung Kim, the book brings together similar yet contrasting studies of Korean American and African American conflict. Korean Americans find themselves economically powerful, but weak politically. African Americans, however, wield considerable political clout even though they may have little economic power. Koreans in the Hood offers the Korean American perspective on coexisting with African Americans in some of the poorest areas of American cities. Each chapter focuses on a particular city and experience, offering a unique opportunity for inter-city comparison as the contributors explore three overt forms of Korean American and African American confrontation: interpersonal dispute, boycott, and mass violence. The first part of the book examines Korean American experience of the conflict in Los Angeles. It then details the social, political, and economic tensions arising from the African American boycott of Korean fruit and vegetable merchants in New York. The final chapters concern the Korean American experience of conflict in Chicago. Throughout, the authors rely on empirical data and seek to trace the roots of conflict, the consequences, and future directions of relations between the two groups. What emerges is an unique account of Korean Americans caught between the poor African American population and the larger, more affluent white population.

The 1992 Los Angeles Riots and the Black-Korean Conflict. In Kim, K. C. (Ed.), Koreans in the Hood: Conflict with African Americans, pp. Conflict between African Americans and Korean immigrant entrepreneurs hood. While Fast Trac is an example of federal government efforts to make re-Koreans in the hood : conflict with African Americans /? edited by Kwang Chung Kim. Other Authors. Kim, Kwang Chung, 1937-. Published. Baltimore London The essays in this collection examine relationships between the Korean American and African American communities in Los Angeles, Chicago, and New York. Find helpful customer reviews and review ratings for Koreans in the Hood: Conflict with African Americans at . Read honest and unbiased product Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news Blue Dreams: Korean Americans and the Los Angeles Riots [Nancy Why Korean Americans? Koreans in the Hood: Conflict with African Americans. Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news Koreans in the hood : conflict with African Americans. book cover. edited by Kwang Chung Kim. Baltimore, Md. : Johns Hopkins University Press, 1999. Koreans in the Hood: Conflict with African Americans. Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news Articles: These readings are on reserve on the web Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news groups and highlights the importance of the black-Korean conflict, which had in fact . general, until the dissemination of peoplehood identity in the twentieth Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news On Sep 1, 2001 Edward J. W. Park (and others) published: Koreans in the Hood: Conflict with African Americans. Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news MLA. edited by Kwang Chung Kim. Koreans In the Hood : Conflict with African Americans. Baltimore : Johns Hopkins University Press, 1999. Print. Conflict between Korean Americans and African Americans attracted national attention in the aftermath of the 1992 Rodney King trial in Los Angeles. The news Conflict with African Americans Kwang Chung Kim. CONFLICT BETWEEN KOREAN AMERICANS AND AFRICAN AMERICANS attracted national attention in Format: Book Language: English Published /? Created: Baltimore : Johns Hopkins University Press, 1999. Description: vi, 250 p. 24 cm. Bibliographic Korean and Black conflict. dominated mass media focused on race, African American and Korean ..

Koreans in the hood: Conflict with african americans.